

A man with a beard, wearing a grey tweed suit jacket, a light blue shirt, and a red and black striped tie, is performing on a volcanic landscape. He is holding a microphone in his right hand and a black stand in his left. The background features a dark, rocky terrain with a bright, glowing lava flow in the distance under a dark, cloudy sky. The word "VOLCANO" is written in large, bold, orange letters with a black outline in the top right corner.

VOLCANO

TOUR PACK 2024-2025

ABOUT THE SHOW

Duration: 60 minutes

High resolution press images here

What happens when a comedian walks into a volcano? In 2023, Ben Miller was the artist in residence at Hawai'i Volcanoes National Park, the first ever stand-up comedian ever selected. This was probably a terrible idea on their part. Watch scientist turned stand-up comedian Ben Miller explore volcanology, entomology, Hawaiian history, cats, cookies, and more.

TOURING INFO

Audience: Nerds, scientists, teachers, curious people

Venue Size: 30-500 people

Tech requirements: Mic, speaker, projector or tv screen

Volcanoes

Rock Tumbler

rock tumbler.

Meta-Morphic
I'm under so much pressure right
now

COLUMBIA ENGINEER
The Fu Foundation School of Engineering and Applied Science

ler's Stand-Up Science

• Which lava is hotter?

SHOW IMAGES

PRAISE FOR VOLCANO

- Winnipeg Free Press

- Bookmarks and Stages

- The Mumble

- The Real Chrisparkle

“Ben Miller’s nerdy and vivid comic mind erupts in this hour-long set!”

- Winnipeg Free Press

“Ben does a fantastic job of getting the facts across & making us laugh at the same time! A real & rare treat.”

- The Mumble

“Ben had us laughing until we cried - very funny and very clever!”

- Audience member

“Loved the smart comedy, clever from start to finish. I guarantee these are the best volcanology jokes you’ll ever hear! 5 stars!”

- Audience member

ABOUT BEN

Ben Miller is an NYC based scientist turned stand-up comedian who has been working for the past 8 years. In that time, he has performed at all the top clubs in the city such as Stand Up NY, Carolines, and The Stand.

In 2022, Ben's debut hour, Stand-Up Science, had a completely sold-out run at the Edinburgh Fringe Festival and toured 50+ cities across the US and Europe. In 2023, he was an Artist in Residence at Hawai'i Volcanoes National Park, the first ever stand-up comedian selected by the National Parks Arts Foundation.

✉ benmcomedy@gmail.com

📷 @thisisbenmiller